To All Customers, Suppliers, and Associates:

Effective April 18, 2002, our organization name changed from "RF Products" to "RDF Products". Also, our domicile recently changed from San Diego, California, to Vancouver, Washington. Our new contact information is provided above for your convenience of reference. Please retain this information for your files.

This name change is administrative in nature only, being necessary to accommodate Washington State regulatory requirements and reflects no change in our management, organizational structure, mission statement, business health, or business philosophy. In this regard, RDF Products continues to be a leading designer and manufacturer of cost-effective, professional-quality radio direction finding equipment intended for law enforcement, public safety, national security, tactical military, interference location, frequency management, and scientific applications.

We look forward to continue serving our customers.

Sincerely,
